

How We're Different

The heart of the Constitutional National Committee is made up of representatives from national organizations that are promoting the Constitution.

- The current national political leadership is often led by lifelong politicians, corporations and lobbyist interests. National organizations that are part of the CNC will be asked to send a representative to be seated as a founding organization. This is a critical fundamental difference as compared to our current political structures. Essentially, the political power centered in Washington, D.C. will be dismantled and disseminated to where it belongs, the American people.

The national agenda and ideas come from the American people and leading CNC organizations, not the established leaders and corporations.

- In the two-party political system we have today, the national agenda is drafted by established, career politicians who are beholden to special interests. Their agenda is crafted behind closed doors and established before our representatives show up in Washington, D.C. The CNC organizations, through the American people, will now be leading and finding solutions to our country's challenges.
- The national agenda will be created by the CNC organizations and individual members, the American people, of the CNC. The agenda will be transparent and written before the CNC members who vote on the final agenda.
- Today our current limited government officials do not get a say in the national agenda and is not transparent to the American people.

United States Speaker of the House Nominee

- The current selection of the Speaker is usually determined by the Washington establishment who wants to promote a larger federal government. The current process doesn't want a Speaker that will limit the size of the government and spending. Elected representatives today either follow their political party's policy or they do not get to participate. Any representative that "bucks" the system is punished. The CNC members will elect their own nominee for Speaker of the House. This nominee will not be a current elected official. Instead, the CNC will find qualified, constitutional individuals that will bring intelligence, integrity and leadership back to the House of Representatives. Elected officials that are using the CNC blueprint for government will nominate this individual when a speakership becomes available.

The CNC will establish an Article V Committee

- The founders of the United States knew that a true representative government comes from a government that is closest to the people. That is why they included Article V to the Constitution. Article V allows states to organize a convention and intervene when our federal government is no longer acting in the best interests of the people. Today our federal government has not had an official budget for the past 6 years. We are over $19 trillion in debt. The states are overregulated while career politicians promise more entitlements with each new day. It's time for the states, for the American people, to step in and put a stop to the big government madness before it's too late. The CNC committee will help organize and educate state representatives on the proper use of Article V to the Constitution.

Legislation will be written in-house and transparent to the American people.

- For the most part, our elected officials today do not create legislation in Washington, D.C. Instead legislation is written behind closed doors with influence from the establishment, corporations, and lobbyists (Obamacare, Farm Bill, etc...). Most bills are laden with all kinds of “Pork Projects” and spending that is not constitutional. After the bill is written, our politicians attach it to one large bill and vote. Most of this legislation would never make it through the amendment process that is why it is done behind closed doors. As we all heard with Obamacare, elected officials don’t even read legislation before they vote. The CNC will draft legislation on specific issues and have bills pre-written and transparent to the American people. And, the language in this legislation will be understandable to the American people.

The CNC will create a budget for the United States of America.

- The current budget is written, similar to the legislative process, behind closed doors. Input from limited government elected officials is not welcome. Plus, billions of dollars are added to the budget without any debate from Representatives. Essentially, no one is watching the taxpayers’ money today. Each year we hear politicians claim they want to limit the size of government yet the opposite occurs. The United States is currently printing money to pay its bills. We must start cutting government. Our country is broke; cutting government spending is the only way to address this issue. The CNC will draft a common sense, limited government budget that will be transparent to the American people.

The CNC will create an investigative committee to look into corruption at the federal level.

- Today there are numerous federal departments that are misusing taxpayer dollars and are accountable to no one. Departments waste money on expensive business trips, furniture, office equipment and online purchases. With the help of elected officials, this committee will investigate and remove this waste from the budget and will not fund it in subsequent years.

The current political party structure in the United States will not resolve the issues facing our country today. This structure that has been created by the Constitutional National Committee may be the only way to change the current political process. This committee is the only national committee that can bring like-minded Americans together to promote a debt-free nation and to support candidates and elected officials that embrace limited government.
